

We believe

Parental supervision is the single most important factor that will stop drowning

Seadragonz believes

Our most important job is to save lives through teaching swimming and water safety skills. This is why we teach from a very early age and from a position of love and passion with an emphasis on gaining trust. We believe that by gaining trust, and teaching with love, children feel encouraged and learn to love swimming. We are committed to being consistent in our teaching and policies. We believe in engaging parents and caregivers so they understand what to expect. This is why we are a highly awarded and leading Australian swim school.

On Teaching Philosophy Seadragonz believes

We teach with love and patience. We believe that learning MUST be fun. Our copious and rich supply of equipment enhances the learning process, with students focusing on fun, and the task is learned as a consequence of fun. Every student has the right to learn at their own pace. We recognise that everyone has not so good days and that is ok. Our teachers are consistent in their behaviour and teaching standard. We take time to develop stroke quality and do not rush our students to simply pass a level. This is why our students are much loved by swim club coaches when they move on from learn to swim.

Seadragonz believes there are some wonderful things about swimming

Swimming is an essential life skill that any age and ability can participate in and enjoy. It's never too late to learn. Swimming provides challenges and rewards and it is the only sport where you can save yours or someone else's life.
